ADP NEWSLETTER

The ADP NEWSLETTER, a professional bi-weekly publication, examines developments in the field of information technology. It is not merely a summing up of recent events nor simply a chronicle of technological developments. It reports on trends as they emerge, interprets their broader meaning, and analyzes technological developments in terms of their business and management implications.

The ADP NEWSLETTER draws on the experience of The Diebold Group, Inc., the international firm which specializes in the applications of technology to business.

The ADP NEWSLETTER is written not only for the technician but for the far-sighted data processing and corporate executive. It is designed for those whose business plans or interests must take into account the impact of the computer on commerce, government or society.

The ADP NEWSLETTER, now in its second decade of publication, supplies timely information to business leaders in the United States and twenty-one foreign countries ranging from El Salvador to the U.S.S.R. It has the highest renewal rate of any publication of its kind; decision makers have found they cannot plan without it.

Following is a brief sample of past issues of the AUTOMATIC DATA PROCESSING NEWSLETTER:

- Planning for Tomorrow's Technology
- Training in ADP
- The Computer's Role in the Marketing Decision
- United States and European Computer Census
- The Data Processing Utility
- The Problems of the Real-Time Computer Installation
- The Inquiry Business
- Information Retrieval Systems
- Evaluating the Computer Installation:
